

The Director of the British School at Athens invites you to an Artist in Residence Talk

Friday 7th December at 6.00 pm

The Value of Fragments

Lorrice Douglas (BSA Arts Bursary 2017/18)

Lorrice Douglas is an artist and researcher at Chelsea College of Art, University of the Arts London.

She will be giving a talk on her recent residency at the British School at Athens, raising the particularities of entering the archaeological scholarly community as an artist and how those two worlds meet: 'I am surrounded by specialists in 'the past', literally at every turn. This is very exciting for me. It makes me realise how skewed my interest in art really is: how time-based it is. I feel more at home (in some ways) than within the art world.'

– Sketchbook entry, BSA, 20th March 2018

The Artist in Residence talk will take place in the saloni of the Director's residence, British School at Athens. Entrance from 52 Souedias Str. Tel: 211 1022 800

Please note change of time to 6 pm. The entrance will be open until 6.15 p.m.
